

FILMS FOR CHANGE

8 - 9:30 AM

SCREENING GUNPOWDER HEART

Claudia and Maria, roam the streets of the city of Guatemala. Claudia works at a call center and is uninterested in the world around her. She lives with her activist grandfather, who tries to persuade her to join his cause. Maria, unlike Claudia, is more spontaneous and lives with her mother in the outskirts of the city. The chaotic streets are filled with common stories of abuse, unforgiving police officers, and charming secret corners. Everything changes one night when they are attacked by three men. Although they manage to escape, Claudia is faced with the dilemma of choosing revenge or listening to her grandfather's advice.

9:45 AM - 12 PM

WORKSHOP BREAKING THE SILENCE: EXPLORING FILM NARRATIVES FOR SOCIAL CHANGE

Camila Urrutia is a Guatemalan filmmaker, actress and DJ. She proposes a dialogue about new narratives with her debut fiction feature film "Gunpowder Heart." She will share her experience in making low budget films in Central America about queerness, gender violence and the grittiness of a post-conflict society like Guatemala's. She will also share her tools for developing a specific theme for an audiovisual project that is close to our hearts.
